

FOUR CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH

LARGE CROWDS SEE AMERICAN LEGION SHOW

"Yoo Hoo" Gains Much Favorable Comment—All Participants Do Well.

With near capacity crowds at both performances, the American Legion's first annual musical comedy, "Yoo Hoo," was staged at the Memorial Hall Thursday in a blaze of music and hypnotism.

The production is under the personal direction of Mr. and Mrs. Irving O. Plain, of Elyria, and it has been said that better trained choruses actors and actresses have never been seen in Circleville. Mr. Plain also is the author of the production.

Every person who had a part in the show did his or her part to make a success.

With the fine array of participants in the production it is impossible to select a star. In order that each may receive his or her portion of praise for the show's success we are going to take them in the order they appeared in the comedy.

Tom Drum, as Paul Palmer, a charming youth who was about to be married, was the real thing and played his part to perfection. Drum's voice was fine and was one of the reasons for the show's success.

Jane, played by Esther Drum, was a scream. This part was one of the real characterizations of the show, and with her inimitable performance Miss Drum also takes her place as a big factor in the comedy's success.

And then comes Blackie, the hypnotist, charmer, impersonated by Joe Lynch. Blackie's mysterious pass of "Yoo Hoo" rendered the recipient of the words in a state of hypnotism at once. Lynch was evidently the man for the part for he received comment from every angle after the show.

Mary May Haswell, who played Rose Marie Kelly, put over possibly the best performance of her career in home talent productions. Miss Haswell played the part of the girl about to marry Paul Palmer and did exceptionally well. Her songs were a feature of the evening.

Ruth Palmer, Paul's sister, played by Ruth Stout, was an important role in the show and was very well handled.

Then came the parents of Paul and Ruth, Mack Parrett Jr., and Miss Mildred Barthelmus. Mrs. Parrett was very religious at the start of the show while her husband was learning to dance. She, however, changed her mood of living and after the show had progressed a while was right in to the thick of the comedy.

Her whistling was very well received. Parrett sang in his usual style and was excellent.

Freddie Watts, as Dick, a brother to Paul and Ruth, did his part very well as did Sarah, his wife, played by Leona Bowman. Eloise Hanley, as the Chinese girl, who tried to make love to every man in the show, with much success, was a fine role and was well handled.

Ed Ebert as the officer came in for his share of the show's success.

A music specialty by Carl Palm, who played the saw to perfection, when he rendered "I Never Saw a Saw Saw Like That Saw Saw." He also played the "Vagabond Lover."

Little Marjorie Wallace in "On Tots" won many rounds of applause for her specialty toe dance. Miss Jeanne Crowe was also very pleasing in her tap dance.

The choruses were all well trained and performed like clockwork.

The production is being repeated this evening and it is expected another capacity house will fill the Memorial Hall.

The show is being staged for the benefit of the American Legion Drum Corps which is now being formed.

The show starts at 8:15 o'clock this evening.

DELAY "FED" FARM ACTION

Attempt To Bring Coalition Between U. S. and Canada Wheat Market.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Any action the federal farm board may take in initiating further steps to bring about a coalition between the Farmers National Grain corporation and the Canadian Wheat pool designed to stabilize the world's wheat market, will await the return of the managers of the Canadian grain from abroad.

Alexander H. Legge, chairman of the Farm board, declared today. Linking of the American wheat crop with the Canadian wheat pool for the stabilization of the world wheat market has long been a dream of agricultural leaders in Congress. The farm board has had such a plan in mind ever since its creation, and there are indications there is at last a serious hope of effecting the Union, with tremendous benefits to wheat growers of both nations.

The question of bringing Argentina's great wheat crop into the coalition has also been suggested, but the Argentine situation offers some difficult problems that would require much negotiation before any definite plan could be evolved.

CIRCLEVILLE FIRMS GIVEN SCHOOL JOB

Marion and Barnes Get General Contract For New Jackson Building.

The contract for the general construction of the new Jackson-twp $100,000 school building which will be one of the finest and most complete centralized school buildings in Pickaway-co was let to the Marion and Barnes Co., of Circleville, Thursday by the school board on their bid of $59,850. Although the exact figures were not expounded it is said their bid was almost $5,000 lower than the bids of any other applicant for the job.

Letting the contract to this firm of which Frank Marion and Tull Barnes are managers, gives the taxpayers of Jackson-twp the best possible advantage they could get from their school work. The fact that the company operates from a point so near the site of the school as Circleville adds an extra advantage to the fact that they obtained the job.

The firm of Lyle and Marion, also of Circleville, was given the contract for plumbing and heating of the new building on their bid of $20,500.

The Electric Construction and Maintenance Co., of Columbus, was awarded the contract for the electric wiring with their bid of $2,291.55.

The bricks for the exterior of the building will be purchased from the Iron Clay Brick Co., of Columbus and the bricks for the interior will be bought from the Alliance Brick Co., of Alliance.

The new school, which was passed at the November election by a good majority and will give the many students of Jackson-twp a great advantage in their work.

MEXICANS AND SOVIET BREAK

Dr. Alexander Makar, Soviet Minister, Ordered To Leave Mexico City.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 24.—To complete the severance of diplomatic relations between Mexico and Soviet Russia, Dr. Alexander Makar, Soviet minister to Mexico, will be expected by the Mexican government to board the next steamer leaving the country, it was learned today.

The Mexican minister to Moscow is already on the way out of Russia accompanied by the entire legation staff, and leaving only a caretaker in charge of the archives.

In announcing severance of relations with Moscow, the Mexican government held the Soviet government directly responsible for recent communist demonstrations before Mexican embassies in North and South American cities.

In blunt language, a statement given out by the Mexican foreign office declared:

"Mexico knows perfectly well that this propaganda against our institutions has been prepared and directed from Russia. It also knows that Russian communist groups neither work nor can work independently, since any political organization whatsoever of that country is subject to the Soviet government.

"Recent revolutionary governments in Mexico as evidence of their liberality agreed to maintain friendly relations with Soviet Russia. They also wished to give proof of their sympathy with a people which had traditionally suffered for the cause of liberty.

"Unfortunately this lofty attitude has not been duly appreciated by Russia.

"Making difficulties for our nation, spreading political propaganda within Mexico, committing acts of discourtesy and insolence, intentionally misunderstanding our gestures and in various countries directing demonstrations against the government of Mexico and our institutions and ideals have ended by producing a situation in which it is neither possible nor decorous to tolerate with discretion and calmness.

Death Ends "Classic" Romance

Marquis Fernando de la Sota, in whose veins flowed blood of the conquistadores, and his beautiful bride, former Anita Guerre Sucre, heiress to South American millions, whom de la Sota probably fatally wounded before shooting himself dead in their fashionable Paris apartment, thus carrying out a threat made in a Greenwich Village studio last Thanksgiving Day.

CABBAGE PATCH AND FORTUNE HAVE PART IN ASHVILLE SHOW

A lowly cabbage patch and the bequeathal of a fortune played important parts in the show "Cyclone Sally" given by the Nebraska grange, in the Ashville high school Thursday night. There was also an English Lord who was reduced to apple picking before he could pick the peach of his choice.

Willie Clump provided more than his share of the humor for the evening with his "Herbert Hoover collar, and his poor bewildered mind. He had a sweet heart, who was kept vaguely in Chicago.

Jim Jenkins, had courted Jenny Thatcher for the past 20 years and was yet in the throes of true devotion, although Jenny was loathe to add to the steadily increasing number of engaged couples.

The entire plot of the show centered around Cyclone Sally, played by Mrs. Fred Hedges. She it was who successfully peddled the cabbages and made a living, while Reggie the Englishman and Jack Webster, owner of the house, were arrested, fined and barely escaped the calaboose when they tried to sell the vegetables from door to door.

Jack was on the trail of Sue Bascomb, hired girl at his farm house, because he had recently learned of a fortune left her by her father. Her step sister, Cyclone Sally gets wind of the procedure and masquerades as her half sister, wooed by Jack.

The story proceeds with a great many hearty laughs from the audience at the Duke's unsuccessful attempts to master American slang, and American jokes.

Miss Flo Bell, as the belle of Cedar Point, wore stunning costumes and managed to spoil the carefully laid plans of the hero, villain and Willie Clump, but did not interfere with cupid, as Cyclone Sally was won by Jack Webster in spite of her double barreled shot gun and cabbages and in spite of his villainous plans to marry for money.

The three acts of the performance took place in the living room on the estate of Jack Webster near the town of Cedar Point at the present time.

The high school orchestra under the direction of Fred Hines played a varied program of many different selections, and added to the evening's program. The large auditorium was filled, in spite of the bitter cold weather.

The show will be repeated Tuesday.

MAYOR HEDGES TALKS ABOUT ENFORCEMENT

Official Denies Statement of The Herald and Lauds His City Government.

"I have the best city government Circleville has had for 25 years," was the statement of Mayor Benton T. Hedges Friday when he was interviewed concerning the Editorial which appeared in The Herald Thursday concerning the city's law enforcement.

Hedges says he sees no occasion for a story that Circleville's law enforcement is not what it should be and that any statement to that effect is positively wrong.

In answer to the bootlegging question, Mayor Hedges said "Men have always been known to drink, and I see no need of additional law enforcement in this matter." That's a man's nature. I don't drink myself but I see no reason why a man who wants to drink shall not be permitted to do so."

Mr. Hedges says that he knows there is gambling going on in Circleville but thinks affidavits should be filed before an effort should be made to stop it. He says, "Some of the best people in Circleville gamble and get much pleasure from it, so why try to stop them?"

The mayor would not comment concerning the operation of slot machines except that under a ruling of the attorney general they were legal. When asked what he thought of children playing the slot machines, he said "I have heard no reports that children spend their money on the machines."

BRITS, FRENCH HAVE MEETING

First Major Effort To Reconcile Governments Is Attempted Today.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
LONDON, Jan. 24.—The first major effort to reconcile the radically divergent French and British views on the method of naval armament limitation—whether by global tonnage or by categories—was made today in the private discussions of the delegations at the London naval conference.

The complete French and British delegations met at 10 Downing Street to consider the reports of their experts who had been working together. After some discussion an official announcement that "encouraging progress had been made" to reconcile the opposing views was issued.

The complete Italian delegation followed the French delegations to Premier MacDonald's official residence for a conference with the British delegates. Inasmuch as both the French and Italian conferences with the British were primarily concerned with European problems, the American delegates did not participate in either.

AMERICANS CONVENE
The Americans held their own meeting, and discussed in general the questions now dominant at the conference negotiations.

After the meeting, Secretary of State Stimson in summarizing what has been accomplished thus far said that "the progress made has been very encouraging." He declined, however, to be specific.

This afternoon Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy will be received by Col. Stimson. As there is no question of peace between the United States and Italy, it is presumed Col. Stimson is endeavoring to be helpful in something out of the Franco-Italian differences.

NAMED EXECUTOR

BELIEVE BYRD IN NO DANGER

Friend Says Party Can Live On Penguin, Whale Meat If Necessary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—That Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his companions are in no great danger and will "come through" without trouble was expressed by Byrd's associates here today. Byrd's Antarctic expedition is threatened with having to spend another winter on the Ross ice barrier with the possibility of insufficient food.

"While it is true that the expedition is not fully equipped to spend another winter in the Antarctic there is no immediate shortage of the food supply," declared Captain H. H. Bailey, personal representative of Byrd here. "There is ample fuel for heat and operation of the radio. The men are not on reduced rations. There is no immediate prospect they will be."

In extreme circumstances whale seal and penguin will sustain life, Bailey pointed out.

MAY GET AID
"It is believed that through the kindly offices of the state department, which has instructed the American ambassador at London and the American minister at Oslo to seek the cooperation of the whaling companies whose vessels are now fishing in the Ross Sea, a navigable passage to the Bay of Whales will be discovered, or forced, if necessary," Bailey said.

He added that it was possible the condition of the ice pack might be altered within the next few days so that Byrd's vessels will be able to proceed south under their own power to his base on the ice barrier.

"His friends await the outcome with confidence and without fear," Bailey said.

FOUR OTHERS BADLY HURT AT OTTWAY, O.

All Children Are Members of Same Family—Bad Flu Causers Flame.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 24.—Four children were burned to death and four others, all members of the same family, were seriously injured, when fire destroyed their home at Ottway, 25 miles west of here, early today.

The fire, which is believed to have been caused by a defective flue, completely destroyed the home.

The dead: RAYMOND PERRY, 16, ELSIE, a sister, 10, ELMER, a brother, eight, BESSIE, another sister, six.

The children were sleeping on the second floor, when they were awakened by their father, Lawrence Perry, who had discovered the fire when he was aroused by the thick smoke. Escape from the second floor was impossible. There were 12 children in the family, and the parents were unable to save them all.

Arthur, 15, sustained a broken ankle when he jumped from a second story window, and his brother, Melvin, 20, was probably fatally injured when he landed on his head after having jumped from a window.

The other four children, Russell, 23, Ralph, 18, Oliver three and Vernon 10-months-old, were uninjured.

The family was housed in the home of neighbors, although they previously had suffered considerably by the zero weather.

The intense heat from the smoldering ruins delayed the removal of the dead bodies.

LARGE CROWDS SEE AMERICAN LEGION SHOW

"Yoo Hoo" Gains Much Favorable Comment—All Participants Do Well.

With near capacity crowds at both performances, the American Legion's first annual musical comedy, "Yoo Hoo," was staged at the Memorial Hall Thursday in a blaze of music and hypnotism.

The production is under the personal direction of Mr. and Mrs. Irving O. Plain, of Elyria, and it has been said that better trained choruses actors and actresses have never been seen in Circleville. Mr. Plain also is the author of the production.

Every person who had a part in the show did his or her part to make a success.

With the fine array of participants in the production it is impossible to select a star. In order that each may receive his or her portion of praise for the show's success we are going to take them in the order they appeared in the comedy.

Tom Drum, as Paul Palmer, a charming youth who was about to be married, was the real thing and played his part to perfection. Drum's voice was fine and was one of the reasons for the shows success.

Jane, played by Esther Drum, was a scream. This part was one of the real characterizations of the show, and with her nimble performance Miss Drum also takes her place as a big factor in the comedy's success.

And then comes Blackie, the hypnotist chauffeur, impersonated by Joe Lynch. Blackie's mysterious pass of Yoo Hoo rendered the recipient of the words in a state of hypnotism at once. Lynch was evidently the man for the part for he received comment from every angle after the show.

Mary May Haswell, who played Rose Marie Kelly, put over possibly the best performance of her career in home talent productions. Miss Haswell played the part of the girl about to marry Paul Palmer and did exceptionally well. Her songs were a feature of the evening.

Ruth Palmer, Paul's sister, played by Ruth Stout, was an important role in the show and was very well handled.

Then came the parents of Paul and Ruth, Mack Parrett Jr., and Miss Mildred Barthelmas. Mrs. Palmer was very religious at the start of the show while her husband was learning to dance. She, however, changed her mood of living and after the show had progressed a while was right in to the thick of the comedy.

Her whistling was very well received. Parrett sang in his usual style and was excellent.

Freddie Watts, as Dick, a brother to Paul and Ruth, did his part very well as did Sarah, his wife, played by Leona Bowman.

Eloise Hanley, as the Chinese girl, who tried to make love to every man in the show, with much success, was a fine role and was well handled.

Ed Ebert as the officer came in for his share of the show's success.

A music specialty by Carl Palm, who played the saw to perfection, when he rendered "I Never Saw a Saw Saw Like That Saw Saw." He also played the "Vagabond Lover."

Little Marvin Wallace in "On Toes" won many rounds of applause for her specialty toe dance. Miss Jeanne Crowe was also very pleasing in her tap dance.

The choruses were all well trained and performed like clockwork.

The production is being repeated this evening and it is expected another capacity house will fill the Memorial Hall.

The show is being staged for the benefit of the American Legion Drum Corps which is now being formed.

The show starts at 8:15 o'clock this evening.

Four new cases of smallpox have developed in the vicinity of Atlanta where Mr. and Mrs. A. H. McCafferty and their two children are quarantined. The cases of Mr. and Mrs. McCafferty is very unusual, since they were victims of the same disease 10 years ago, and were quarantined by the same doctor that is caring for them now.

MAYOR HEDGES TALKS ABOUT ENFORCEMENT

Official Denies Statement of The Herald and Lauds His City Government.

"I have the best city government Circleville has had for 25 years," was the statement of Mayor Benton T. Hedges Friday when he was interviewed concerning the Editorial which appeared in The Herald Thursday concerning the city's law enforcement.

Hedges says he sees no occasion for a story that Circleville's law enforcement is not what it should be and that any statement to that effect is positively wrong.

In answer to the bootlegging question, Mayor Hedges said "Men have always been known to drink, and I see no need of additional law enforcement in this matter." That's a man's nature. I don't drink myself but I see no reason why a man who wants to drink shall not be permitted to do so."

Mr. Hedges says that he knows there is gambling going on in Circleville but thinks affidavits should be filed before an effort should be made to stop it. He says, "Some of the best people in Circleville gamble and get much pleasure from it, so why try to stop them?"

The mayor would not comment concerning the operation of slot machines except that under a ruling of the attorney general they were legal. When asked what he thought of children playing the slot machines," he said, "I have heard no reports that children spend their money on the machines."

BRITS, FRENCH HAVE MEETING

First Major Effort To Reconcile Governments Is Attempted Today.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The first major effort to reconcile the radically divergent French and British views on the method of naval armament limitation—whether by global tonnage or by categories—was made today in the private discussions of the delegations at the London naval conference.

The complete French and British delegations met at 10 Downing Street to consider the reports of their experts who had been working together. After some discussion an official announcement that "encouraging progress had been made" to reconcile the opposing views was issued.

The complete Italian delegation followed the French delegations to Premier MacDonald's official residence for a conference with the British delegates. Inasmuch as both the French and Italian conferences with the British were primarily concerned with European problems, the American delegates did not participate in either.

AMERICANS CONVENE
The Americans held their own meeting, and discussed in general the questions now dominant at the conference negotiations.

After the meeting, Secretary of State Stimson in summarizing what has been accomplished thus far said that "the progress made has been very encouraging." He declined, however, to be specific.

This afternoon, Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy will be received by Col. Stimson. As there is no question at issue between the United States and Italy, it is presumed Col. Stimson is seeing the Italian leader in an endeavor to be helpful in smoothing out the Franco-Italian differences.

NAMED EXECUTOR

Joseph H. McKinley, Darby-twp, was appointed executor of the estate of the late Anna Catherine Tracy of Darby-twp, in probate court Thursday. The estimated value of the estate, both real and personal, is $1,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McManamy of N. Court-st attended the funeral of Ralph Hoover in Ashville Thursday.

Missing Oil Man Would Come Home

A sick, broken old man sits in the villa St. Augustine, Cannes, France longing for a sight of the Statue of Liberty and the Kansas and Oklahoma oil fields which produced his fortune. He is James O'Neill, former president of the Prairie Oil & Gas Company, and missing witness in the famous Teapot Dome Oil scandal.

BELIEVE BYRD IN NO DANGER

Friend Says Party Can Live On Penguin, Whale Meat If Necessary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—That Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his companions are in no great danger and will "come through" without trouble was expressed by Byrd's associates here today. Byrd's Antarctic expedition is threatened with having to spend another winter on the Ross ice barrier with the possibility of insufficient food.

"While it is true that the expedition is not fully equipped to spend another winter in the Antarctic there is no immediate shortage of the food supply," declared Captain H. H. Railey, personal representative of Byrd here. "There is ample fuel for heat and operation of the radio. The men are not on reduced rations. There is no immediate prospect they will be."

In extreme circumstances whale seal and penguin will sustain life, Railey pointed out.

MAY GET AID
"It is believed that through the kindly offices of the state department, which has instructed the American ambassador at London and the American minister at Oslo to seek the cooperation of the whaling companies whose vessels are now fishing in the Ross Sea, a navigable passage to the Bay of Whales will be discovered, or forced, if necessary," Railey said.

He added that it was possible the condition of the ice pack might be altered within the next few days so that Byrd's vessels will be able to proceed south under their own power to his base on the ice barrier.

"His friends await the outcome with confidence and without fear," Railey said.

FOUR OTHERS BADLY HURT AT OTTWAY, O.

All Children Are Members of Same Family—Bad Flue Cause Flame.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 24.—Four children were burned to death and four others, all members of the same family, were seriously injured, when fire destroyed their home at Ottway, 25 miles west of here, early today.

The fire, which is believed to have been caused by a defective flue, completely destroyed the home.

The dead:
RAYMOND PERRY, 16.
ELSIE, a sister, 10.
ELMER, a brother, eight.
BESSIE, another sister, six.

The children were sleeping on the second floor, when they were awakened by their father, Lawrence Perry, who had discovered the fire when he was aroused by the thick smoke. Escape from the second floor was impossible. There were 12 children in the family, and the parents were unable to save them all.

Arthur, 15, sustained a broken ankle when he jumped from a second story window, and his brother, Melvin, 20, was probably fatally injured when he landed on his head after having jumped from a window.

The other four children, Russell, 23, Ralph, 18, Oliver three and Vernon 10-months-old, were uninjured.

The family was housed in the home of neighbors, although they previously had suffered considerably by the zero weather.

The intense heat from the smoldering ruins delayed the removal of the dead bodies.

now, and we hope to add a few more soon.

The next PTA meeting will be Thursday, Jan. 30. Mark the date and plan to spend the evening with us.

A dozen farmers and as many of the agriculture students were treated to an illustrated lecture on Alfalfa in the school auditorium Wednesday morning. It is too bad that so much good free service was not better patronized. It was a profitable session for those present even if some of them never raise alfalfa. The knowledge is worth something. County Agent Lewis had charge and the instructor was Mr. Schaefer.

Another splendid free agricultural service seems to go begging in our township. Our Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture instructor offers a night class for all of the young farmers (18 to 38 years old) and only three or four come to take advantage of it.

This is an opportunity the people of Pickaway should take advantage of. If interested, get in touch with the superintendent or agriculture instructor at once. Next week will be too late.

Remember GEORGE, The Magician, Tuesday night, February 3. Proceeds to be used to equip our rest rooms.

Our typewriting and stenography class had some more practical experience last week when they wrote about 60 letters for the superintendent. These letters were sent to all of the colleges in Ohio and to several outstanding or representative colleges of other states inviting them to send their catalogs and bulletins for our "guidance" library shelf.

These publications will enable our students and graduates to study the various college entrance requirements and courses of study.

We are pleased to announce that a fine large picture of Mr. Nelson Hitler donor of our library, has been made by the Baker Art Gallery and will hang in the library ever as a reminder that his gift of $5000 gave us the finest school library in this section of the state.

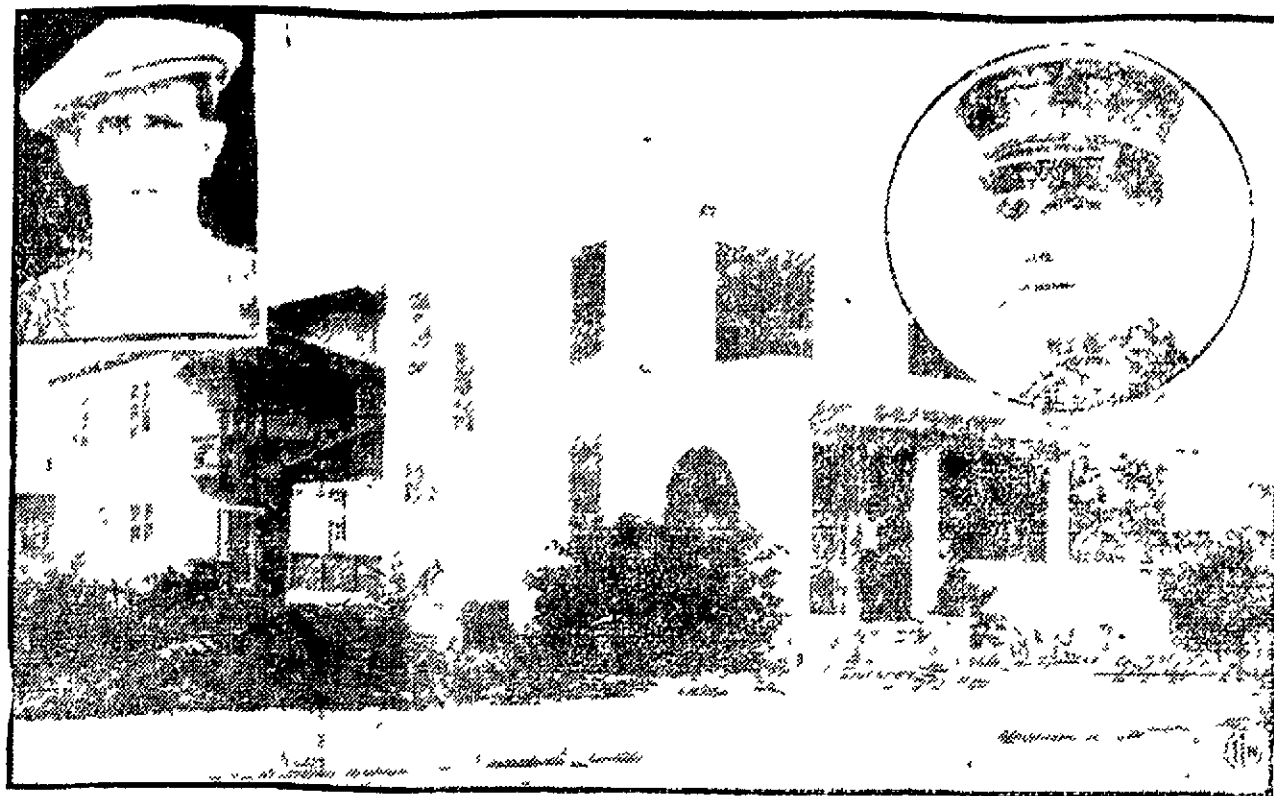

Our board of education reorganized with the same officials as last year viz, Ralph Head, president, Albert Musselman, vice president, Leo McKenzie clerk. The other members are Henry Dunkle, Shirley Dreisbach, and Lyman Penn.

Our high school has this year another organization that is proving mighty popular. It is an "intramural basketball league." Besides "no varsity" and reserve squads we have just 20 boys. These have been organized into four teams and a regular schedule of 20 minute games is handled by the varsity players during the noon periods. This gives the regular squad some valuable experience, helps to develop players for the future, gives the boys valuable exercise, and stirs up enthusiasm in the whole school.

Last Friday noon there was a special treat for the school when the Intramural All-stars played the Varsity reserves. The All-stars were picked up the Varsity regulars, and they defeated the Reserves by two points. A noisy crowd of boys and girls had a very pleasant half hour. Incidentally this program reduces disciplinary problems.

As a result of two of the hardest fought games of the season, Pickaway has annexed two more basketball victories. Salt-

Hair that sparkles!

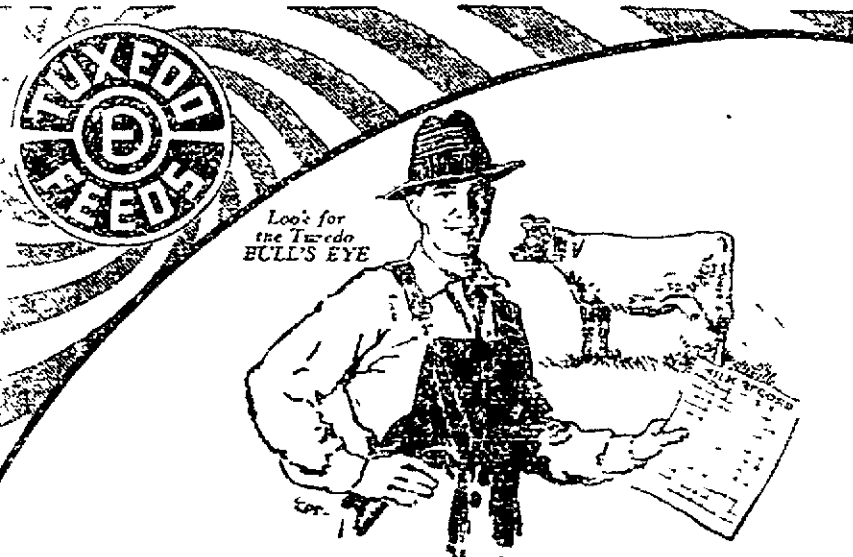

No one can deny the importance of having the hair arranged in the style best suited to the individual type. Much of the effect is lost, however, unless the hair is kept soft, abundant, lustrous.

A million busy women and girls know the easiest way to keep the hair in perfect condition is with Danderine. The first application will show you how marvelously it removes excess oil from the hair; cleanses it; makes it sparkle with new life and luster. It's so simple to use Danderine. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair! The consistent use of Danderine will dissolve the worst crust of dandruff; soothe, heal the scalp; stimulate the growth of long, silky abundant hair.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It makes the hair easy to manage; holds it in place for hours. "Set" your waves with it and see how much longer they stay in.

FATHER AND SON ARE GRATEFUL TO SPINAGO

Circleville Home Brightened When Mr. Morris and His Son Both Reap the Benefits of Tonic Containing Spinach.

Here is a case of a father who will be eternally grateful for Spinago's efficiency. And why? Because it not only relieved him of suffering and restored him to health, but it also rebuilt his son's body and freed him from pain which had been caused by disordered digestion and elimination. Mr. William Morris, the father who resides in this city at 118 E. Water St., came into the Mykranitz Pharmacy where this master medicine is being introduced to the public, with the following remarkable endorsement.

"For about ten years I had been suffering from constipation and stomach trouble. During this whole time I tried one medicine after another from drug stores and doctors. The misery was unbearable. I had no appetite whatever. My body resistance was weakened and I was in a terribly run down condition. I was about discouraged after having tried so many different medicines over such a long period of time. Then I heard of Spinago and what wonderful results other people had derived from it. One bottle of Spinago did wonders for me. The second bottle did what all other medicines which I tried for ten years failed to do. It cured me. For the first time in ten years I now feel good health. My stomach trouble is gone. I now have a good healthy appetite and energy. My bowels are regular. I have Spinago to thank for this wonderful change in me. It is a truly wonderful medicine. I am no less grateful for what Spinago has done for him. I am now completely made over and freed from stomach and bowels troubles. Spinago can be used on all the feasts to cause the stomach to make up of nature's deficiencies. It is a tonic and is fully selected and well proportioned of such things as corns, herbs and burdock. It contains as its most important ingredient concentrated at each of its most valuable of foods.

Suffers from constipation, liver and bowel trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia, or stimulation, nervousness, rheumatism and neuritis are daily gaining relief and health through the use of Spinago.

Spinago is sold and guaranteed in Circleville at the Mykranitz Pharmacy, 107 North Court St.—Adv.

Hair that sparkles!

No one can deny the importance of having the hair arranged in the style best suited to the individual type. Much of the effect is lost, however, unless the hair is kept soft, abundant, lustrous.

A million busy women and girls know the easiest way to keep the hair in perfect condition is with Danderine. The first application will show you how marvelously it removes excess oil from the hair; cleanses it; makes it sparkle with new life and lustre. It's so simple to use Danderine. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair! The consistent use of Danderine will dissolve the worst crust of dandruff; soothe, heal the scalp; stimulate the growth of long, silky abundant hair.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It makes the hair easy to manage; holds it in place for hours. "Set" your waves with it and see how much longer they stay in.

AIRPLANES TO AID MAROONED

Hundreds of Families In Southwestern Indiana In Dire Condition.

VINCENNES, Ind., Jan. 24.—With death, disease and slow starvation threatening, the hundreds of families marooned in the flooded lowlands of Southwestern Indiana today pinned their hopes on an airplane squadron to bring relief.

Effort to reach the refugees by boat have failed because of ice floes, and as a last resort two army airplanes and a squadron of National Guard planes today prepared to drop food, clothing and medical supplies at regular intervals throughout the flooded zone.

Once the supplies are dropped, small boats will attempt to distribute them to villages and individual families who have taken refuge in flooded houses and barns.

THAT we shall serve beyond the general expectations—that our professional conduct shall be also personal in its attentive quality is characteristic of this organization. Consistently moderate fees.

ReadersGREAT MEET PLANNED

State officials of the several sportsmen's organizations, farm bureau, grange, newspapers, federated women's clubs, American Legion, Scouts and others, met in the Senate Chamber in Columbus, Jan. 21, and initiated a big statewide conservation rally. The plan is to hold conventions of a number of the organizations in Columbus on Wednesday, March 5th, with a big, general all day conservation program, with a banquet in the evening on March 6th. Governor Cooper is expected to issue a proclamation fixing the time and purposes of the occasion. It was decided to make the week of March 3rd, "Conservation Week in Ohio," with clubs, schools, churches, newspapers and all interested organizations participating. The Conservation Council, a non-partisan board of eight members, was designated by the gathering to have the celebration under general direction.

SERVICE FOR ORGANIZATIONS

The publicly and educational bureau of the Department of Agriculture and Division of Conservation offers practical cooperation to organizations of all kinds in advancing interests of divisions under direction of the Department. Specialists are available to make addresses touching on Foods and Dairies, Animal and Plant Industry, Weights and Measures, Feeds and Fertilizers, Markets, Bee Culture, Farming and various aspects of Conservation. Movie films and slides are available on conservation subjects. Farm organizations, schools, women's clubs, fish and game clubs and civic organizations are being served in this way. There is no charge for the service.

BEEKEEPER'S CHANCE

C. A. Reese, state apiarist, calls attention to advice from Washington, that in the coming census, which is to be taken beginning April 1 the beekeeping industry will have the best opportunity it has ever had to find out something about itself. "State and county beekeeping organizations and even individual beekeepers realize the necessity for having reliable information on bees and honey, should cooperate to the fullest possible extent in the taking of the 1930 census," says Mr. Reese. "This probably will be one of the most important items of business, if not the most important, to come before the beekeeping industry in the next 10 years."

LOSE T. B. TEST FIGHT

Miami-co farmers opposing the tuberculin cattle test lost their battle against the state one day last week when Judge Walter L. Jones of Piqua dissolved a temporary restraining order issued several months ago against Perry L. Green, state agricultural director and his agents. Ruling that his decision follows those of several other common pleas courts and two courts of appeals, Judge Greer said the state has authority to require examination and testing of calves for bovine tuberculosis, and that every presumption is in favor of the state when the constitutionality of the law is attached. Thirteen hundred and fifty farmers, owning 8415 head of cattle, were involved in the suit. More than 100 witnesses were examined during the hearing of the case.

SCABIES IN SHEEP

Dr. C. McCandless, chief of the Division of Animal Industry, says that scabies in sheep, commonly known as sheep scab, is a parasitic skin disease and one of the most injurious diseases effecting sheep. The disease is readily transmitted by direct contact with infested sheep, or by sheep being housed in stables or hauled in trucks and wagons in which infested sheep have previously been housed or transported. Unless proper means for its eradication are employed, the disease will spread rapidly through a flock causing great damage through loss of wool, emaciation and death. Sheep scab is quite prevalent in Ohio, especially in the Northern, Western and Southern portions of the state. Practicing veterinarians and flock owners should be on the constant lookout for this disease and report its occurrence to the Division of Animal Industry, says Dr. McCandless.

THAT advertising goes out and brings business in. Its drawing power is so strong that it will always bring an increased amount of business.

Talk persuades but advertising convinces. Advertising does more to sell merchandise than any other element that enters into selling. Everybody knows that the business concerns that advertise persistently set a standard that gives the utmost in quality.

Persistent, truthful advertisers do not fail for lack of business because that class of advertising never fails to direct the minds of the buying public to them in a way that brings an ever increasing business.

Progress means advancement. The wants of the people are always increasing. Business concerns that are persistent advertisers are always ready to meet these wants.

Newspaper advertising does the most to bring in worth while business. It costs the least and does the most.

Advertisements deal with things in which all people are vitally interested.

ECONOMY SALE

All the foods that Kroger customers consumed during 1929, if figured at the average price of these foods at grocery stores throughout the country, as substantiated by bulletins published monthly by the United States Department of Labor, would have cost them $25,993,983.33 more than they paid at Kroger's. That's quite a slice of money that Kroger customers saved. These figures are based on the savings which Kroger customers made in the purchase of twelve basic food items last year. These items, those that the average family uses almost daily, were: Butter, Fresh Eggs, Bread, Sugar, Coffee, Flour, Corn, Peas, Tomatoes, Lard, Meat and Potatoes. The ability to offer the freshest of quality foods at such tremendous savings is attracting more and more women to Kroger Stores each day.

THE NEW COLONIZER

Another victory for radio, and a notable one, is announced in Montreal. Radio is solving the Canadian colonization problem.

For years Canada has been struggling to people her vast western territories. It was slow work. Latterly it was harder than ever to find settlers willing to endure the hardships and loneliness of pioneer life. Now the situation has changed. The movement westward is increasing. In the last seven months reported, colonization licenses have been issued to 260,488 persons, a gain of nearly one-fourth over the same period of the year before. This growth follows closely the extension of radio broadcasting facilities.

Radio settles the land, keeps the settlers contented and makes intelligent, up-to-date citizens out of them. It provides the colonizing department of the Canadian Pacific. It provides news, market reports, entertainment and instruction along many lines. Isolated districts obtain the same entertainment as metropolitan centers. Community entertainment becomes possible on a vast scale. There are no more "hay-seeds" lost and lonely in the remote places, but alert citizens bound together by invisible waves.

It is the same of course, in this country. Only Canada, being a younger stage of pioneering notices it more. How much easier and pleasanter would have been the settling of our own West, if radio had been in existence half a century ago.

HEADS DOWN, FEET UP

"Loaf like a man" Dr. O'ga Stastny of Omaha advises her sisters.

As executives, she maintains they will get along better when they learn to lean back in swivel chairs and rest their feet on their desks.

This may be all right medically or physiologically. It's not only relaxing to the whole body explains Dr. Stastny, causing the strain on the heart and supplying more blood to the brain, but it's good for the feet and it wards off varicose veins.

But how about manners? Our sisters of elegant conduct have been making a mighty effort in the post-Lincoln years, to persuade our public servants and our business and professional people to keep their feet off their desks and their hands off their pockets. The man who talks business or even talks nonsense with his feet higher than his head is now an exception. Are you on to take up this ancient American custom, which so many of our European friends, just when they are getting over it, are now adopting? Women will have their feet up.

"STORM-TOSSED" BY HELEN SCHERMERHORN YOUNG

CHAPTER XXIX.
DICK was standing there across the grave. He didn't look at Enid as she stood in her long black veil, holding Ned's arm. But she felt his presence. It sustained her.

How quickly those automobiles rushed back from the cemetery, as if nothing had happened! Everybody in a hurry—nothing seems to stop—no one knows or cares what hearts are breaking in those cars.

Home, home, just to lie down—be alone. If she could only see Dick for a moment—in a room alone. He was so strong and understanding. He wouldn't talk to her.

For two days Enid lay prostrate. She could scarcely raise her hand or open her eyes. They forced her to eat. She could hardly swallow the broth. Then she suddenly grew stronger. She must not give in like this. She could not think in terms of herself now; she was not only herself. She was herself and her baby.

"Yes," she said. "I think the car would do me good. I'll go for a little drive if you will take me, Ned."

Only a few days ago she had driven on those same streets and then stopped in to see Mummy and tell her everything that she was doing and how dear Mummy was to her. Now she was alone. She was alone. She was alone.

That awful brown box with the flower on it lay lowered into the car—rolling down, down, down. When she slept, it seemed as if she were going down with it. Ned would never see her baby. Dear God, forgive me! I loved him so.

"Ned," she spoke to her. She had forgotten to tell her. She had forgotten to tell her. She had forgotten to tell her.

"Ned," she spoke to her. She had forgotten to tell her. She had forgotten to tell her. She had forgotten to tell her.

perhaps to hold her hand for a moment. But to feel her in his arms. "Of course," he said. "I would wait. I would wait. I would wait."

Enid was to be his wife. He would not touch her until she was ready. He would wait. He would wait. He would wait.

What day should he leave? He'd decided that night. But the company decided for him. When he went down to the company's office that morning he was called to the office. He and Ned were to make a trip of inspection to Central America and the West Indies.

There was to go West to strengthen the company's position. They would go to San Francisco. They would go to San Francisco. They would go to San Francisco.

Enid was dull. Everything seemed to be going wrong. She was to go to San Francisco. She was to go to San Francisco. She was to go to San Francisco.

That night when Ned was home, Enid was very quiet. She was very quiet. She was very quiet.

Enid was to go to San Francisco. She was to go to San Francisco. She was to go to San Francisco.

AT THE GRAND

Glenn Tyrone and Sue Carol in "It Can't Be Done" is the title of the interesting picture at the Grand theatre Friday.

The story is of a bashful boy (Glenn Tyrone) and a girl who is anything but bashful, naturally Sue Carol.

An educational talking picture is a part of the program.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Many a big film success has ushered into the cinema hall of fame half-a-dozen little-known players, but few screen hits have added so much to the fame of well-known actors as "The Isle of Lost Ships" has contributed to the renown of Virginia Valli and Jason Robards.

The First National-Vitaphone special, at the Cliftona theatre Friday and Saturday, presents these popular young stars in an intriguing love story against the eerie, colorful background of the unexplored Sargasso Sea. Here, in a little colony of derelict ships living on an island of derelict ships a startling drama is evolved.

It is so startling, in fact, that it makes the lively beginning of the story, with our hero being taken by a detective to justice and the electric chair for an alleged crime of which he is innocent, seem tame in comparison.

Miss Valli and Robards fall in love during these stormy scenes, and nothing in their past careers equals the emotional power of their unique affair depicted in "The Isle of Lost Ships." The picture, of course, has all sound and dialogue, and their voices, too, are in perfect harmony.

There's more to that the movie technicians assure us, than might appear. It has been discovered that "romantic voice harmony" is essential for effective screen mating.

Noah Beery is the "heavy," Robert O'Connor plays the role of the detective, and the large, colorful supporting cast contains many familiar favorites of stage and screen.

The Hazards of Child Labor

Early Years in Industry Steal the Child's Rightful Chance of Development.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health
New York City

VERY different are the conditions under which the children of today live, vastly different than they were twenty five years ago. Yet there are many thousands of children in our fair land to day who from necessity, or because of greed and negligence, are forced into industrial work. They are driven to labor during the very years when they should be developing physically and mentally.

In New York City alone 60,000 boys and girls enter industry each year. Health hazards arise almost immediately. Up to this point in their development, the State and society have expended much money upon their education and health, now, perhaps, all that has been sacrificed because essential care and protection will not be adequate to safeguard their health.

Under New York State law, gainful employment for children under 14 years of age is forbidden. Those between 14 and 16 years must show a certificate of physical fitness in entering industry together with one showing a satisfactory school attendance record. Still, too many children go to work to meet their educational needs, and their health again, he comes under the watchful care of the Health Department.

In many another State such laws have not been made for children entering industry. In some States children are still made to work in the factory ten or eleven hours a day. In some of the rural districts of the State, the child is made to work after school hours which takes them until ten and eleven o'clock at night to finish. In canneries, tenement house work and street trades children are made to work long hours.

In this machine age men and children are often brutally used up by the machine. The rich sap of human life is being drained to fill the wheels of industry, we hear from one who knows.

Children in industry are more prone to accidents than their elders. An injured child sustains a greater loss than the adult, as he must carry his disability through life.

In 1928 there were 884 children under sixteen years of age who were given industrial compensation by the State of New York. The State, too, has a compensation law by which a child illegally employed, when the fact is determined, receives double compensation from the State. Not so the legally employed children. The child who is injured should receive a larger compensation, commensurate with his disability through life.

The actual results upon child health in industry may never be known. The high death rate from tuberculosis among children 15 to 20 years of age, the thousands of cases of malnutrition, of incipient disease, of infection in early years which have serious consequences in later life, of accidents—all these take their toll among children of our so enlightened country today.

Every effort should be made for adequate laws in all States and Federal laws, as well, to maintain child health and abolish child labor.

Tuning in on the Talkies

Billie Dove has made "Her Private Life" the subject of a talkie.

"Playthings of Broadway" duplicate the toys of Main Street if we are to believe the night club scenes we see in the movies.

It's hard to believe, but "The Sins of the World" provided only enough plot for one picture.

"The Business of Love" seems to be another attractive field for the bootlegger.

They And Converse "Dumb Dells in Ermine" may be beautiful but they will certainly not be dumb when they come to the screen in Warner Bros. new talkie of that title.

"The Way of All Flesh" would seem, eventually to lead to dieting.

Fence-Rail Talkies Farmer Silo says "My boy in college wears only a hair-line moustache in spite of my telling him a full set of whiskers is mighty entertaining."

"The Right to Lie" seems to be vested in so many people that none can claim the exclusive.

For "Double Feature" Day "When Doctors Disagree" "You Don't Know Your Luck"

Facts Based on Fiction "Richie Bathhouse" will soon be revealed as "A Son of the Gods."

Marion Byron acts as first aid to Charlotte Greenwood in "So Long Letty."

"The Green Goddess" is brought from stage to screen with George Arliss starring.

THE NEW COLONIZER

Another victory for radio, and a notable one, is announced in Montreal. Radio is solving the Canadian colonization problem.

For years Canada has been struggling to people her vast western territories. It was slow work. Latterly it was harder than ever to find settlers willing to endure the hardships and loneliness of pioneer life. Now the situation has changed. The movement westward is increasing. In the last seven months reported, colonization licenses have been issued to 260,488 persons, a gain of nearly one-fourth over the same period of the year before. This growth follows closely the extension of radio broadcasting facilities.

Radio settles the land, keeps the settlers contented and makes intelligent, up-to-date citizens out of them, says the colonizing department of the Canadian Pacific. It provides news, market reports, entertainment and instruction along many lines. Isolated districts obtain the same entertainment as metropolitan centers. Community entertainment becomes possible on a vast scale. There are no more "hay-seeds" lost and lonely in the remote places, but alert citizens bound together by invisible waves. It is the same, of course, in this country. Only Canada, being a younger stage of pioneering, notices it more. How much easier and pleasanter would have been the settling of our own West, if radio had been in existence half a century ago!

HEADS DOWN, FEET UP

"Loaf like a man," Dr. Olga Stastny of Omaha advises her sisters.

As executives, she maintains they will get along better when they learn to lean back in swivel chairs and rest their feet on their desks.

This may be all right medically or physiologically. It's not only relaxing to the whole body, explains Dr. Stastny, easing the strain on the heart and supplying more blood to the brain, but it's good for the feet and it wards off varicose veins.

But how about manners? Our ancestors of elegant conduct have been making a mighty effort, in these post-Lincoln years, to persuade our public servants and our business and professional men to keep their feet off their desks. And they have succeeded pretty well. The man who talks business or even talks nonsense with his feet higher than his head is now an exception. Are women to take up this ancient American custom, which so irks our European friends, just when men are getting over it? If so—well, women will have their fling.

RETIRED PIGEONS

Carrier pigeons have been retired from navy service. They are no longer needed because radio does their message-carrying work so well.

The pigeons held on to their job in the face of the advance of scientific efficiency longer than many of the old means of communication. Their going leaves a mystery unfathomed. Scientists have never found out just how these birds find their way home through strange regions. It is a subject worthy of considerable scientific investigation.

CHAPTER XXIX.

DICK was standing there across the grave. He didn't look at Enid as she stood in her long black veil, holding Ned's arm. But she felt his presence. It sustained her.

How quickly those automobiles rushed back from the cemetery as if nothing had happened! Everybody in a hurry—nothing seems to stop—no one knows or cares what hearts are breaking in those cars.

Home, home, just to lie down—he alone. If she could only see Dick for a moment—in a room alone. He was so strong and understanding. He wouldn't talk to her.

For two days Enid lay prostrate. She could scarcely raise her hand or open her eyes. They forced her to eat. She could hardly swallow the broth. Then she suddenly grew stronger. She must not give in like this. She could not think in terms of herself now; she was not only herself. She was herself and her baby.

"Yes," she said. "I think the air would do me good. I'll go for a little drive if you will take me, Ned."

Only a few days ago she had driven on those same streets and then stopped in to see Mummy and tell her everything that she was doing, and now—dear Mummy was lying up there in Woodland.

That awful brown box with the flowers on it being lowered into the earth—going down, down—down. When she slept it seemed as if she were going down with it. Never see Mummy again—Mummy would never see her baby. Dear God, forgive me. I loved him so.

Then Ned spoke to her. She had forgotten he was with her.

"Dick's coming up to see you this afternoon, Enid. Would you care to see him? He feels very badly. He was so fond of your mother, and your mother loved him. Do you remember how she used to call him the cowboy when he was a little fellow—when he used to come down from school with us?"

Would she care to see him? That was the only thing that mattered now. What would he think when he learned that she hadn't told Ned?

"Enid," was all he said, when he shook hands with her. Then many friends came in—her aunt and the minister who had married her. She felt herself blushing when she spoke to him—their recollections could almost hear him say "until death do us part"—and she had not waited for death.

At last she found herself for one moment with Dick. He came and sat near her while Ned walked to the door with some people and the rest were talking.

"Dick, let me wait until I am stronger to tell Ned,"—because I—she faltered. "One was coming up, but Dick answered in a whisper, 'Of course, darling.'"

She sighed a great sigh. Things were easier now. She had time to think, to breathe, to catch up. She'd be much stronger in a little while, then she would begin to straighten things out.

And all the while Dick was saying to himself:

"Enid—Enid—my poor darling. If I could only share your sorrow! If there were only some thing I could do!"

Flattery's Significance

"No man despises flattery," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown.

"Even when compliments are undeserved, they assure him that his power is feared."—Washington Star.

He'd better let her alone, he reasoned. Let her work it out in her own way. But how soon would it be? This couldn't go on. He must marry her. He must clear this thing up. Each time he saw her was a direct insult to Ned. It was cheapening themselves—all three of them.

Yes, he'd go. It was carrying on an illicit love affair for him to stay near her and snatch a few words here and a few words there, "I asked Dick to come up for dinner tonight, but he said he was busy. He said he was afraid he wouldn't be able to come up to say good-bye, Enid, but that he would telephone you. The old boy's up to his neck in work."

Enid walked slowly to the sofa and lay down. She could have screamed her heart out. But he must have a reason. Was it because she hadn't kept her promise to tell Ned? But he didn't know perhaps to hold her hand for a moment or feel her in his arms. But their love wasn't that kind of a love. Enid was to be his wife. He would not touch her until she was free.

What day should he leave? He'd decide that night. But the Oil Company decided for him. When he went down to the company's office that morning he was called in to his chief. He and Ned were ordered to make a trip of inspection in Central America and Mexico.

He was to go West to straighten things up there. Ned would join him, and they would sail in a few weeks from San Francisco.

His head was dull. Everything was blurred. He walked all the way downtown. Once he was nearly struck by an automobile at a crossing.

That night when Ned went home he said very quietly to Enid: "I'm ordered to Central America. Dick and I are to go down to look over some properties there. I'm sorry to leave you for so long, dear."

Ned going away... relief... terror. She'd tell him before he left. Dick going, too. When would she see him? She must see him.

"When are you going, Ned?"

"Dick's going West Thursday. Today is Tuesday. I'll join him in two weeks. We're booked to sail three weeks from today."

"That's sweet of you, Neddie," she replied. "But I haven't the heart for anything like that now."

He pressed her hand and thought it was her mother of whom she felt asleep.

Theatres

AT THE GRAND

Glenn Tryon and Sue Carol in "It Can't Be Done" is the title of the interesting picture at the Grand theatre Friday.

The story is of a bashful boy (Glenn Tryon) and a girl who is anything but bashful, naturally Sue Carol.

An educational talking picture is a part of the program.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Many a big film success has ushered into the cinema hall of fame half-a-dozen little-known players, but few screen hits have added so much to the fame of well-known actors as "The Isle of Lost Ships" has contributed to the renown of Virginia Valli and Jason Robards.

The First National-Vitaphone special, at the Cliftona theatre Friday and Saturday, presents these popular young stars in an intriguing love story against the eerie, colorful background of the unexplored Sargasso Sea. Here, in a little colony of derelict rumans living on an island of derelict ships a startling drama is evolved.

It is so startling, in fact, that it makes the lively beginning of the story, with our hero being taken by a detective to justice and the electric chair for an alleged crime of which he is innocent, seem tame in comparison!

Miss Valli and Robards fall in love during these stormy scenes, and nothing in their past careers equals the emotional power of their unique affair depicted in "The Isle of Lost Ships." The picture, of course, has all sound and dialogue, and their voices, too, are in perfect harmony.

There's more to that the movie technicians assure us, than might appear. It has been discovered that "romantic voice harmony" is essential for effective screen mating.

Noah Beery is the "heavy," Robert O'Connor plays the role of the detective, and the large, colorful supporting cast contains many familiar favorites of stage and screen.

The Hazards of Child Labor

Early Years in Industry Steal the Child's Rightful Chance of Development.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D. U. S. Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health New York City.

VERY different are the conditions under which the children of today live, vastly different than they were twenty five years ago. Yet there are many thousands of children in our fair land today who from necessity, or because of greed and negligence, are forced into the world of work. They are driven to labor during the very years when they should be given every advantage to develop physically and mentally.

DR. COPELAND

In New York City alone 60,000 boys and girls enter industry each year. Health hazards arise almost immediately. Up to this point of their development, the State and society have expended much money upon their education and health. Now, perhaps, all that has been done may be sacrificed because of the inadequate protection which will not be adequate to safeguard their health.

Under New York State laws gainful employment for children under 14 years of age is forbidden. Those between 14 and 16 years must show a certificate of physical fitness in entering industry together with one showing a satisfactory school attendance. In that State, too, when a child goes to work he must attend continuation school, and there again, he comes under the watchful care of the Health Department.

In many another State such laws have not been made for children entering industry. In some States children are still made to work in the factory ten or eleven hours a day. In some of the rural districts children are employed on the farm, in work after school hours which takes them until ten and eleven o'clock at night to finish in canneries, tenement house work and street trades children are made to work long hours.

In this machine age men and children are often brutally used up by the machine. "The rich say of human life is being drained to oil the wheels of industry," we hear from one who knows.

Children in industry are more prone to accidents than their elders. An injured child sustains a greater loss than the adult, as he must carry his disability through life.

In 1928 there were 884 children under sixteen years of age who were given industrial compensation by the State of New York. The State, too, has a compensation law by which a child illegally employed, when the fact is determined, receives double compensation from the State. Not so the legally employed children. The child who is injured should receive a larger compensation, commensurate with his disability through life.

The actual results upon child health in industry may never be known. The high death rate from tuberculosis among children 15 to 20 years of age, the thousands of cases of malnutrition, of incipient disease, of infection in early years which have serious consequences in later life, of accidents—all these take their toll among children of our so enlightened country today. Every effort should be made for adequate laws in all States and Federal laws, as well, to maintain child health and abolish child labor.

Tuning in on the Talkies

by Watthill

THE movies might be more instructive. Scores of films have "Love" in their titles but none of them explain how folks get that way.

Billie Dove has made "Her Private Life" the subject of a talkie.

"Playthings of Broadway" duplicates the toys of Main Street if we are to believe the night club scenes we see in the movies.

It's hard to believe, but "The Sins of the World" provided only enough plot for one picture.

"The Bustiness of Love" seems to be another attractive film for the bootlegger.

They Will Converse "Dumb-Bells in Ermine" may be beautiful but they will certainly not be dumb when they come to the screen in Warner Bros. new talkie of that title.

"The Way of All Flesh" would seem, eventually, much is being done in making these men better citizens when released.

"The extreme penalties that have been made for offenders of crime has not decreased the number of crimes," he said, "and today the penal institutions of Ohio have a larger population than they have ever had. With these crowded conditions it is difficult for these men, who are in charge of the institutions, to satisfactorily do a good job in helping improve the men under their control. Mental conditions of many of those confined does not improve under the conditions that exist in some of the institutions today and this is the problem that confronts the state of Ohio today. I do not mean that many of these should be pardoned to relieve this situation for there are many who should never be turned out, but there are also many who would be good citizens if out on probation. The State of Massachusetts has tried this plan for several years and under this plan the population of their penal institutions has decreased while in Ohio it has increased. From the records of pardons it would seem that if at least 10 per cent of those confined could be let out on probation, it would help solve the crowded conditions, and make these better men outside than when left inside to serve their time."

"Ohio is at the crossroads," he stated, "and it has to choose from either increasing the population of the institutions, and building larger ones or map out a program that would check the flow and decrease the number of people that yearly increase the population of our institutions."

MAN SHOT BY DRY OFFICER

Conflicting Statements Gnarl Michigan Probe—Man Near Death.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 24.—Conflicting statements today gnarled investigation into the probably fatal shooting of Walter Grund, 27, who was wounded by Clare B. Hopper, customs inspector near Wyandotte.

Hopper, who was accompanied by William Redford, a fellow officer declared that Grund was attempting to land a rowboat filled with liquor and was shot when he refused to halt.

At the Wyandotte General hospital last night Grund told John R. Watkins, United States district attorney, that his boat carried no liquor and that he was merely trying to dock it when a uniformed man shot him.

Hopper said he was waiting for smugglers' boats to dock at a Wyandotte pier Wednesday night when Grund came along in his rowboat. He said he and Redford ran out on the wharf as the rowboat approached and ordered Grund to surrender. When he refused, the inspectors turned flashlights on the boat, Hopper declared.

"We saw bottles lying in the bottom of the boat," Hopper said in his statement to Ward Culver, assistant prosecuting attorney.

"Redford fired ahead of the boat first, and then I fired when the man pulling on the oars reached toward his hip. I saw him fall over."

A factory watchman found Grund lying in his rowboat after it came ashore three miles from Wyandotte wharf.

Grund declared he was searching for another boat which had been cast adrift.

SCOTT CERTAIN HE WILL TROUNCE JACK SHARKEY

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
NEW YORK, Jan. 24—"I don't like to win fights on rouls but when they foul me—what can I do?"

"I've won five times on fouls but each time I would have won anyway."

"I have never yet fouled an opponent and I have engaged in 90 fights."

Phil Scott, the British heavy-weight champion who meets Jack Sharkey, the American ex-sailor, in a scheduled 15-round spectacle at Miami, Fla., on February 27, made the above assertions in an interview today. The Englishman voiced his views while he was playing a leisurely game of indoor golf with the writer on the miniature course at Madison Square Garden.

"Can't something be done to insure the public a run for their money when they pay stiff prices for seats at what are billed as major fights?" he was asked.

"I don't know what can be done about it," he replied. "When a fighter is fouled, he's fouled." The suggestion that when a boxer goes down from a low blow "time out" be declared until he recuperates so that he can be sent back in to continue the bout left Scott cold.

"I can't see the idea," said Scott. "A foul is a funny thing to define," Scott explained. "You'd think that it wouldn't be long after you were hit a low blow before you could continue but that's all wrong, your legs just wouldn't support you."

"I know because I've been fouled plenty. I've been fouled by Paolino, Yale Okum, Richardo Bertazzola, by Sandwein and by Otto Von Porat. I felt the effects of the Von Porat foul blow for two weeks. I didn't get over it until I had returned to England. As much as I would like to have gone right back at Von Porat that night I couldn't, for my legs would not have held me up. It's in the legs that you feel it most. "Why, I actually got yellow jaundice from the effects of the foul blow Yale Okum delivered. They gave me the cold water treatment and I contracted yellow jaundice."

"I hope I'm never mixed up in another foul fight. I certainly hope Sharkey keeps his blows up. I figure he'll be chucking it after the fourth round. I'll beat him because I can outbox him."

Scott is a genial chap, 30 years old, slightly over six feet tall and weighs at present 215 pounds. He wears slicked back from a He has light brown hair which low forehead.

BURY FIRST OF BEREA VICTIMS

State Agencies Endeavor To Prevent Further Crossing Accidents.

BEREA, O., Jan. 24—As heart-torn and grief-stricken families buried the first of the 10 dead victims of Wednesday's tragic school bus crash today, every faculty of state, county and civic agencies were directed toward an attempt to safeguard Ohio's highways against further disasters.

The first funeral for victims of the crash here in which nine small school children and a bus driver were killed and one child was injured, was held at 8 a. m. today. Services were conducted at St. Adelbert's Catholic church for 10-year-old William Pastorek. At 2:30 this afternoon funeral services will be held for William, 14, and Vernon, seven, Davidson at the home of their parents in Brook Park village. Other Davidson, 12-year-old sister of the two dead boys is in Berea Community hospital recovering from injuries which she received in the crash. She is the lone survivor of the disaster.

Funeral services for the six other child victims and the bus driver, John Taylor, 36, will be held tomorrow.

Formal verdict of Coroner A. J. Pearce on the bus crash will probably not be made public until tomorrow, it was indicated today. The report, according to Coroner Pearce, will place the blame for the disaster on John Taylor, the bus driver, whom he charges was guilty of neglect.

Support of Governor Myers Y. Coper was asked today by Fred H.

FARM MACHINES ON SHOW AT BIG WEEK

Agricultural machines such as have displaced thousands of farm laborers, vastly increased the efficiency of the farmer, and contributed heavily to the decrease in farm population of the United States during the past quarter century, will form one of the most striking exhibits in connection with the eighteenth annual Farmers' Week at the Ohio State university here Feb. 3 to 7.

The agricultural engineering department of the University is now assembling its twelfth annual farm equipment exhibit, which will include implements, tractors, combine harvesters, model farm buildings, farm water systems, household conveniences, household heating plants for farm homes, farm lighting plants, and equipment for the utilization of electricity on the farm, both for the house and in the farm operations.

One feature of the exhibit will be a miniature gasoline refining plant in operation, and another will be a small mill in which binding twine will be manufactured.

In addition to the exposition a full program of lectures, demonstrations and discussions of the various mechanical problems on the farm and in the home, will be carried on throughout the week by the members of the department.

Moving pictures relating to agricultural engineering subjects, will be shown each day.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS SET TO ANNEX TWO GAMES TONIGHT

Like the real fighters they are, the Circleville high school Tiger court teams, girls and boys, are ready to take both ends of a double header at the high school gym this evening when the girls and the boys of Grandview high school invade the local hardwood.

The girls have delighted all who saw them in their two games off the home court and in the one game in which a large crowd of Circleville fans could see them, the boys did exceptionally well in defeating Y Day school a week ago.

The game for the girls will be an effort to cop their third straight victory while for the boys it will be a chance to advance in the Central Buckeye loop for they are tied with the Grandview team with one defeat and one victory each. Grandview defeated Grandville by one point on the Grandview court while the Guthrie men turned the trick by three points on the Grandville court.

The squad is in excellent condition with the possible exception of Nickerson who suffered a slight leg injury in Thursday evening's practice. It is thought he will be in his usual good shape at game time, however.

Although nothing definite has been stated it is entirely possible that the starting Tiger lineup will see a new face tonight. Coach Guthrie has made no statement to the fact but it won't be a surprise to see a new starter.

Anyway, folks, be there for

"Retarder" is Popular
In this day of hurry and speed, a retarder seems out of place, yet naturally occurring anhydrite, which is similar to gypsum but lacks its water of crystallization, is in demand to retard the setting of cement. The rate of solution of the retarder is much slower than that of gypsum, and this determines how quickly the cement hardens.

BADGERS WIN AT INDIANA

Meanwell Men Come Through In Final Minute To Take 23-21 Game.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 24. Wisconsin today held an undisputed second place in the western conference basketball race after defeating Indiana 23 to 21 last night in a frantic overtime battle. Purdue still holds first position.

With the score 19 to 19 at the close of the regular time, the game went into an overtime period during which Indiana scored once and Wisconsin twice. Matt-husen, Wisconsin forward, caged the winning shot.

Indiana's failure to take advantage of free throws played a large part in the Hoosiers' defeat. Out of nine attempts the Indiana five made good only three. Wisconsin scored five out of ten tries.

Indiana used an overhead pass extensively while Wisconsin employed the usual bounce pass and slow breaking offense. The Badgers succeeded in protecting leads twice by effective stalling.

SCOTT CERTAIN HE WILL TROUNCE JACK SHARKEY

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
NEW YORK, Jan. 24—"I don't like to win fights on rouls but when they foul me—what can I do?"

"I've won five times on fouls but each time I would have won anyway."

"I have never yet fouled an opponent and I have engaged in 90 fights."

Phil Scott, the British heavy-weight champion who meets Jack Sharkey, the American ex-sailor, in a scheduled 15-round spectacle at Miami, Fla., on February 27, made the above assertions in an interview today. The Englishman voiced his views while he was playing a leisurely game of indoor golf with the writer on the miniature course at Madison Square Garden.

"Can't something be done to insure the public a run for their money when they pay stiff prices for seats at what are billed as major fights?" he was asked.

"I don't know what can be done about it," he replied. "When a fighter is fouled, he's fouled. The suggestion that when a boxer goes down from a low blow 'time out' be declared until he recuperates so that he can be sent back in to continue the bout left Scott cold."

"I can't see the idea," said Scott.

"A foul is a funny thing to define," Scott explained. "You'd think that it wouldn't be long after you were hit a low blow before you could continue but that's all wrong, your legs just wouldn't support you."

"I know because I've been fouled plenty. I've been fouled by Paolino, Yale Okum, Richardo Bertazzola, by Sandwein and by Otto Von Porat. I felt the effects of the Von Porat foul blow for two weeks. I didn't get over it until I had returned to England. As much as I would like to have gone right back at Von Porat that night I couldn't, for my legs would not have held me up. It's in the legs that you feel it most."

"Why, I actually got yellow jaundice from the effects of the foul blow Yale Okum delivered. They gave me the cold water treatment and I contracted yellow jaundice."

"I hope I'm never mixed up in another foul fight. I certainly hope Sharkey keeps his blows up. I figure he'll be chucking it after the fourth round. I'll beat him because I can outbox him."

Scott is a genial chap, 30 years old, slightly over six feet tall and weighs at present 215 pounds. He wears slicked back from a He has light brown hair which low forehead.

BURY FIRST OF BEREA VICTIMS

State Agencies Endeavor To Prevent Further Crossing Accidents.

BEREA, O., Jan. 24—As heart-torn and grief-stricken families buried the first of the 10 dead victims of Wednesday's tragic school bus crash today, every faculty of state, county and civic agencies were directed toward an attempt to safeguard Ohio's highways against further disasters.

The first funeral for victims of the crash here in which nine small school children and a bus driver were killed and one child was injured, was held at 8 a. m. today. Services were conducted at St. Adelbert's Catholic church for 10-year-old William Pastorek.

At 2:30 this afternoon funeral services will be held for William, 14, and Vernon, seven, Davidson at the home of their parents in Brook Park village. Other Davidson, 12-year-old sister of the two dead boys is in Berea Community hospital recovering from injuries which she received in the crash. She is the lone survivor of the disaster.

Funeral services for the six other child victims and the bus driver, John Taylor, 36, will be held tomorrow.

Formal verdict of Coroner A. J. Pearse on the bus crash will probably not be made public until tomorrow, it was indicated today. The report, according to Coroner Pearse, will place the blame for the disaster on John Taylor, the bus driver, whom he charges was guilty of neglect.

Support of Governor Myers Y. Coper was asked today by Fred H.

FARM MACHINES ON SHOW AT BIG WEEK

Agricultural machines such as have displaced thousands of farm laborers, vastly increased the efficiency of the farmer, and contributed heavily to the decrease in farm population of the United States during the past quarter century, will form one of the most striking exhibits in connection with the eighteenth annual Farmers' Week at the Ohio State university here Feb. 3 to 7.

The agricultural engineering department of the University is now assembling its twelfth annual farm equipment exhibit, which will include implements, tractors, combine harvesters, model farm buildings, farm water systems, household conveniences, household heating plants for farm homes, farm lighting plants, and equipment for the utilization of electricity on the farm, both for the house and in the farm operations.

One feature of the exhibit will be a miniature gasoline refining plant in operation, and another will be a small mill in which binding twine will be manufactured.

In addition to the exposition a full program of lectures, demonstrations and discussions of the various mechanical problems on the farm and in the home, will be carried on throughout the week by the members of the department.

Moving pictures relating to agricultural engineering subjects, will be shown each day.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS SET TO ANNEX TWO GAMES TONIGHT

Like the real fighters they are, the Circleville high school Tiger court teams, girls and boys, are ready to take both ends of a double header at the high school gym this evening when the girls and the boys of Grandview high school invade the local hardwood.

The girls have delighted all who saw them in their two games off the home court and in the one game in which a large crowd of Circleville fans could see them, the boys did exceptionally well in defeating Y Day school a week ago.

The game for the girls will be an effort to cop their third straight victory while for the boys it will be a chance to advance in the Central Buckeye loop for they are tied with the Grandview team with one defeat and one victory each. Grandview defeated Grandview by one point on the Grandview court while the Guthriemen turned the trick by three points on the Granville court.

The squad is in excellent condition with the possible exception of Nickerson who suffered a slight leg injury in Thursday evening's practice. It is thought that first game which starts at 7:15 p. m. and you'll get value received for every cent it costs you to enter the high school gym.

Vic Kolb, former Ohio Wesleyan ace, will referee the game.

"Retarder" Is Popular

In this day of hurry and speed, a retarder seems out of place, yet naturally occurring anhydrite, which is similar to gypsum but lacks its water of crystallization, is in demand to retard the setting of cement. Records That Can't Be Broken

THE PEN may be mightier than the sword, but it isn't half as powerful as the new material that is to be used for phonograph records. If the newsreel pictures and the talkies are accurate criteria the pen together with the printing press may be due for a long vacation. And the spoken word will indeed be ruler of a new kingdom where newspapers and magazines will emerge in the guise of phonograph records. The new and wonderful material announced recently by Doctor Louis Hammett and George H. Walden, Jr. is called "Durium" and is all that its name implies. For it is durable to the point of unbreakability and of equal flexibility, making it ideal for phonograph records in particular. But not the old type of record that dropped when any one looked at it. Not by a long shot! The new durium records can do duty as a tea-pot stand, a dinner plate, a door-mat or a nice toy for baby without in the least impairing their efficiency or tonal properties. Durium is so inexpensive that it is planned to issue standard sized records each week, to be retailed at 15 cents apiece through such agencies of distribution as newsstands and various retail stores in much the same way as the weekly magazine is marketed. It is easy from this to visualize the time when the weekly paper will consist of records amplifying the newsreel pictures that have taken such a hold on popular imagination. Talking pictures will also be made of durium, which has the added advantage of emerging from the mails intact regardless of the handling to which it has been subjected. All this seems so far away from the little brittle wax disc that was used by Thomas Edison to record voices for his phonograph. It was so soft that after having been played for admiring neighbors a few times its easily marred surface was so scratched or chipped that one of Sousa's marches sounded like a record of a menagerie of wild animals before feeding time. And now that the new material promises us practically unbreakable records, in addition to all the other marvels of the age, we may still witness a revival of the gramophone that has of late been eclipsed by so many other marvels. We may even read our recorded newspapers from it.

WINORR PRODUCTS FURNISH DINNER

The dinner Thursday night served to the Business and Professional Women's club, was donated by the Winorr Canning factory from their canned goods. Mrs. Allyne Smith, an associate of the factory delivered a splendid talk on the canned goods, as processed at the Winorr factory.

The dinner menu consisted of sauer kraut and spareribs, buttered peas, escalloped corn, green beans and beet salad, pumpkin pie and whipped cream and coffee. The unique table decorations were appetizing looking sample products in glass jars from the Winorr factory.

Mr. Howard Orr who was to have been the speaker was in Chicago, and Mrs. Smith spoke in his place. She gave a very interesting history of the Winorr business, the products canned there, and the care and time necessary in the plans for the different crops. The hurry from the time the vegetable reaches maturity, until it finds itself in a can, was graphically described by the speaker. She said the canning factory had been in existence for 18 years. In 1912 the present firm was organized. Howard Orr as general manager, has succeeded his father, S. B. Orr, as president.

Canned vegetables are divided into three grades. These are fancy which is the best, extra standard which is next and standard, the lowest in quality. Mrs. Smith explained that vegetables were packed three hours after they have been harvested.

A point stressed by the speaker

that housewives have been hearing for some time, was that they must not pour the liquid from the cans of vegetables, but that a great deal of the food value is contained in this vegetable juice. The vegetables are cooked in the sealed can, so that nothing of the food value is allowed to escape. The Winorr factory is one of the few that pack a complete line of vegetables in number one cans, or the small cans. These are growing in popularity explained Mrs. Smith because of their economical size, and because of the price, of a dime. "Winorr products are shipped to all markets in the United States with the exception of the extreme western markets," Mrs. Smith said. Miss Helen Barthelmas, county nurse added a delightful touch to the program by singing two solos. Mrs. Will Fitzpatrick was chairman of the social committee who prepared the canned goods donated by the Winorr Canning factory.

A new triumph in electric cleaning—"POSITIVE AGITATION"

The GREATER HOOVER

It pays to know the difference between The HOOVER and a vacuum cleaner

- VACUUM cleaning, assuredly, was a far step ahead of the broom.
- Now a new and even more impressive advance is accomplished—the doubly-efficient cleaning principle called "Positive Agitation!"
- It is so saving of time and effort, so superlatively effective, it enables the new and greater Hoover to surpass even the celebrated standard-design Hoover in such important particulars as these:
- 1 For the first time, it makes possible "Positive Agitation" of floor coverings.
 - 2 By actual test, in the ordinary cleaning time, it beats out and sweeps up from carpetings an average of 131% more dirt.
 - 3 It is an even greater rug-saver; the oftener a carpet is cleaned with a Hoover the longer that carpet will wear.
 - 4 It is virtually service-proof, every part, including the new motor, requiring no oiling.
 - 5 It increases the efficiency of its remarkable dusting tools because of its 50% stronger suction.
 - 6 Its exclusive dust- and germ-proof bag is now washable.
 - 7 Its form and finish are of startling beauty; and every new feature insures greater operating ease.
- If you want to clean your rugs and carpetings easier, faster, more thoroughly, certainly you want "Positive Agitation." Phone us today and we'll demonstrate without obligation.

WINORR PRODUCTS FURNISH DINNER

The dinner Thursday night served to the Business and Professional Women's club, was donated by the Winorr Canning factory from their canned goods. Mrs. Allyne Smith, an associate of the factory delivered a splendid talk on the canned goods, as processed at the Winorr factory.

The dinner menu consisted of sauer kraut and spareribs, buttered peas, escalloped corn, green beans and beet salad, pumpkin pie and whipped cream and coffee.

The unique table decorations were appetizing looking sample products in glass jars from the Winorr factory.

Mr. Howard Orr who was to have been the speaker was in Chicago, and Mrs. Smith spoke in his place. She gave a very interesting history of the Winorr business, the products canned there, and the care and time necessary in the plans for the different crops. The hurry from the time the vegetable reaches maturity, until it finds itself in a can, was graphically described by the speaker.

She said the canning factory had been in existence for 18 years. In 1912 the present firm was organized. Howard Orr as general manager, has succeeded his father, S. B. Orr, as president.

Canned vegetables are divided into three grades. These are fancy which is the best, extra standard which is next and standard, the lowest in quality. Mrs. Smith explained that vegetables were packed three hours after they have been harvested.

A point stressed by the speaker

that housewives have been hearing for some time, was that they must not pour the liquid from the cans of vegetables, but that a great deal of the food value is contained in this vegetable juice. The vegetables are cooked in the sealed can, so that nothing of the food value is allowed to escape. The Winorr factory is one of the few that pack a complete line of vegetables in number one cans, or the small cans. These are growing in popularity explained Mrs. Smith because of their economical size, and because of the price, of a dime.

"Winorr products are shipped to all markets in the United States with the exception of the extreme western markets," Mrs. Smith said.

Miss Helen Barthelmas, county nurse added a delightful feature to the program by singing two solos.

Mrs. Will Fitzpatrick was chairman of the social committee who prepared the canned goods donated by the Winorr Canning factory.

A new triumph in electric cleaning—"POSITIVE AGITATION"

The GREATER HOOVER

"POSITIVE AGITATION" is beating, reduced to scientific process by the patented Hoover Agitator. Do not fail to see this new cleaning principle demonstrated.

It pays to know the difference between The HOOVER and a vacuum cleaner

VACUUM cleaning, assuredly, was a far step ahead of the broom.

Now a new and even more impressive advance is accomplished—the doubly-efficient cleaning principle called "Positive Agitation"!

It is so saving of time and effort, so superlatively effective, it enables the new and greater Hoover to surpass even the celebrated standard-design Hoover in such important particulars as these:

1 For the first time, it makes possible "Positive Agitation" of floor coverings.
2 By actual test, in the ordinary cleaning time, it beats out and sweeps up from carpetings an average of 131% more dirt.

3 It is an even greater rug-saver; the oftener a carpet is cleaned with a Hoover the longer that carpet will wear.

4 It is virtually service-proof, every part, including the new motor, requiring no oiling.

5 It increases the efficiency of its remarkable dusting tools because of its 50% stronger suction.

6 Its exclusive dust- and germ-proof bag is now washable.

7 Its form and finish are of startling beauty; and every new feature insures greater operating ease.

If you want to clean your rugs and carpetings easier, faster, more thoroughly, certainly you want "Positive Agitation." Phone us today and we'll demonstrate without obligation.
